Lt. Ezra S. Griffin's Sword Successfully Returned to Scranton

The following is the press release issued by The GAR Memorial Association and the Sons of Union Veterans Griffin Post #8

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Griffin's Sword is Back Home

The GAR Memorial Association and the Sons of Union Veterans Griffin Post #8 are pleased to announce the return to Scranton of the sword worn by Lt. Ezra S. Griffin of Providence (now North Scranton) during the Civil War 1861-1865. The public is invited. Admission is free.

Lt. Griffin, after whom the SUVs Post 8 is named, volunteered for service in answer to the call by President Abraham Lincoln in 1861. The Civil War began with the bombardment of Fort Sumter in the harbor of Charleston, SC early on the morning of April 12, 1861.

Griffin joined the 143rd Pennsylvania Infantry in 1862. He fought through many of the major battles but was wounded at the siege of Petersburg, Virginia in 1864. He passed away from his injuries at a hospital in Annapolis, MD.

The official presentation ceremony for the return of the sword and sash he wore will be held on Sunday, July 20th at 2 pm in front of the GAR Museum, second floor, Marketplace at Steamtown, Lackawanna Ave, Scranton. A four-month effort by the GAR successfully raised the funds needed to return the sword from an auctioneer in Arizona.

Prayers, music by the Mark Montella Project and Mark Myers of Post 8 will be on hand. Light refreshments will be offered, Nick Petula, author of Forgotten Hero: Life, Letters and Diaries of Lt. Ezra S. Griffin will offer remarks.

July 4th 1919

1919 was one of the most tumultuous years in American history. Not only did the country suffer from post-World War I economic inflation, but Americans also experienced labor unrest, the “Red Scare,” anarchist bombings, race riots, the end of the Progressive Era and the beginning of anti-immigration laws.

July 4th, 1919 was unique for another reason. It was the last July 4th when Americans could legally consume alcohol. On January 16th of that year, the 18th Amendment of the Constitution, more commonly known as Prohibition, was ratified and scheduled to take effect on January 17, 1920. One can imagine that on July 4th, 1919, the popular toasts might have been, “drink up” and/or “last call.” That “last call” stood for 13 years until repealed by the 21st Amendment on December 5, 1933.

Download That Raw DNA File!

Take Charge of Your Genetic Data

Downloading your raw DNA file from any commercial testing company—like 23andMe, AncestryDNA, or MyHeritage—is a must.

Thinking about deleting your 23andMe account? The raw DNA file provided by 23andMe contains unprocessed genetic data from your saliva sample, detailing specific genetic markers. This file is distinct from the interpreted health, ancestry, or trait reports you see on their platform. Here's why downloading it is essential:

lackawannahistory@gmail.com

- You Own It: You paid for the kit, the testing, and the data generated. The raw DNA file is part of what you've invested in, and downloading it ensures you retain access to your genetic information.
- Future Use: Raw DNA files can be uploaded to third-party platforms (e.g., GEDmatch, MyHeritage, or health-focused tools) for additional ancestry insights, health analysis, or research purposes.
- Data Preservation: If you delete your 23andMe kit or account, you may lose access to your results and raw data permanently. Downloading the file safeguards your information before it's gone.
- Privacy Control: Storing your raw DNA file offline (e.g., on a secure hard drive) gives you full control over your sensitive genetic information, especially if you're concerned about 23andMe's data storage practices.

Quick Tips for Any Testing Company

- Locate the Download Option: Most companies (e.g., AncestryDNA under "DNA Settings," MyHeritage under "Manage DNA Kits") offer a raw data download in your account settings. Check their help or FAQ pages for specific steps.
- Act Before Deleting: Always download your raw DNA file and any reports before deleting a kit or account to avoid permanent loss.
- Verify and Store Securely: Ensure the file (usually a .txt or .zip) downloads correctly and store it in an encrypted, offline location.
- Check Compatibility: Different companies may format files slightly differently, but most third-party tools accept raw data from major providers.

Disclaimer: This article is for informational purposes only and does not constitute legal or medical advice. Always review the testing company's privacy policies and terms of service before downloading or deleting your data. For the latest instructions, visit official websites.

Dear Sir: How I Found My Civil War Veteran, Michael Gilbride

By Nancy Gilbride Casey

I have often wondered if our family had any Civil War veterans. Compared to some, ours is not the most deeply rooted American family. Among my earliest ancestors who came to the United States were James Gilbride and his wife Mary Hart Gilbride, who arrived in the U.S. in April 1850, on their way to Pennsylvania. They brought with them several children: Sons James (my 3x great-grandfather), Owen, and Francis, and daughter Rose.¹ But they also had two older sons, Michael and Martin, who must have emigrated at an earlier time.²

My first clue that we might have a Union soldier in our family history was a note in the book History of Luzerne, Lackawanna and Wyoming Counties, Pennsylvania. Here, a man named Michael Gilbride was noted as serving in the 52nd Pennsylvania, Company H.³ But was he part of our family?

Then, I found a second clue: Michael Gilbride, aged 37, registered for the Civil War draft in June 1863. He was an Irish-born miner then living in Jenkins Township, Luzerne, Pennsylvania.⁴ This also meshed with the known occupations of many of our Scranton-area male ancestors. Jenkins Township was located just to the southwest of the Borough of Scranton, so possibly some of the Gilbride men made their way to other area mines for work.

This Michael Gilbride had also applied for a Civil War invalid pension on 2 October 1884, while living in Sacramento, California.⁵ Pension files contain all the correspondences from a veteran to the pension office, outlining not only his war service, but also injuries or diseases that he sustained then or developed since, attributable to his service. A man's service had to be verified with the War Bureau. He also had to submit medical examinations certifying his disability, and affidavits from his commander or fellow soldiers attesting to his service before any action was taken to provide him with a pension. Sometimes the process could take years...such was the case for Michael.

Knowing that these pension files can be chock-full of genealogical information, I requested a copy of Michael Gilbride's file from the National Archives, to determine if I could connect him to our family.

The file did not disappoint—and held a few surprises.

Chief among the surprises was a letter from Michael's son, John A. Gilbride, of Lowell, Massachusetts, dated 7 December 1901.⁶

Here was a man, identifying himself as Michael's son, living in a locality unknown to date in the Gilbride line—Lowell, Massachusetts. And that for whatever reason, his father had left the family back in 1872—nearly 30 years prior—never to be heard from again. John Gilbride clearly had the correct man: a Michael Gilbride who enlisted in Pennsylvania with the correct regiment. What a smart idea John had to track his father down by writing to the Pension Bureau!

Unfortunately, the news was not at all good. Correspondence in Michael Gilbride's file between his lawyer and the Pension Bureau revealed that Michael had died in Sacramento on 24 September 1886, years prior to his son John's inquiry. It must have been a devastating blow.

While I had previously pieced together the lives of the younger children of James and Mary Gilbride, the eldest sons, Michael and Martin, had proven more elusive. John's letter changed that. It helped me begin to build Michael's family tree and illuminate some of the family's circumstances.

Since uncovering this Lowell connection as well as Michael's residence, I have been able to track the family back into Pennsylvania and connect them to the family of our immigrant Gilbride ancestors who settled in Palmyra, Wayne County, Pennsylvania in 1850. Soldier Michael was the brother of my great-great-great-grandfather James Gilbride, and uncle to my great-great-grandfather, also named Michael.

Michael appears to have worked then in nearby Texas Borough, also in Wayne County, as a laborer.⁷ He may have lived in Seely Mills, and possibly worked on the Delaware & Hudson Gravity Railroad, a major employer in the area at the time, and part of the coal transportation route connected to the Delaware & Hudson Canal.⁸

Michael married Sarah Ruddy on 29 December 1850 at St. John the Evangelist Catholic Church in Honesdale.⁹ Seely Mills was about 2.5 miles from Prompton, where it appears Sarah lived at the time.¹⁰

The couple welcomed two sons into their family while living near Honesdale—John, our letter-writer, born about 1852—and Michael, born about 1855.¹¹

By 1860 the family was living in Jenkins Twp., Pittston Borough, Luzerne County, where Michael was "an early pioneer of coal mining."¹² There, the family grew to include two more children:

- Mary A., born December 1856
- Sarah J., born April 1859¹³

The family moved to nearby Pittston, Luzerne County, sometime between 1860-1870; during that time the couple's last two children were born:

- Rosa E., born July 1861
- James, born September 1863¹⁴

In August 1864, Michael voluntarily enlisted in the Union Army.¹⁵ Though he only served from August 1864 - July 1865, his duty resulted in injuries which cost him dearly in the years to come.

Stay tuned for more of the story in the next issue of History Bytes.

A Brief History of Abington Hills Cemetery and Introduction to the Friends of Abington Hills Cemetery

By Crystal Armideo

In 1929 Leland and Elizabeth Green transferred the ownership of 107 acres to Abington Hills Cemetery Association, Inc. This land became what we know as Abington Hills Cemetery. It was advertised as a magnificently conceived architectural endeavor in the rolling hills of South Abington with contributions from engineers and landscaping artists who have worked on burial parks throughout the United States. The original plans included a mausoleum site, administration buildings and a chapel. Simplicity and dignity are features of this modern burial plot the brochure touts.

Abington Hills Cemetery --- The Cemetery Beautiful

In this busy world today a person must make all kinds of plans for the future. Plan a home - Plans for the children's education - Insurance for Health and Accidents - Annuities and Pensions for old age - and - the thoughtful person also plans a burial place - the thoughtful person buys at Abington Hills Cemetery in advance. It's better to have a cemetery plot and not need it than need it and not have it.

There is no expense in buying a cemetery plot in advance when you buy at Abington Hills Cemetery. The price of perpetual care is included in the purchase price and there is no additional expense - no taxes - no assessments - no upkeep - no interest. The Abington Hills Cemetery Association cuts the grass, maintains the roads and keeps them in good repair and open in the Wintertime.

You, too, can experience the comfort - security and peace of mind that comes from having made this provision in advance of need. Buy now - small down payments - and monthly payments within the reach of every family. Come visit with us.

At Abington Hills Cemetery the Office-Chapel Building provides a homelike atmosphere when you prefer to have the usual cemetery services inside instead of at the grave. Adjacent to the chapel is an impressive modern receiving vault with crypts - always available should the need arise.

Abington Hills Cemetery offers many different plans on burial areas for your selection.

The Gardens of Devotion, such as the "Garden of the Open Bible" or the "Garden of the Four Apostles" provide memorials as a sanctuary where you can visit and pray. In these areas, as well as in the Memorial Park areas, individual graves are identified by permanent Bronze Memorials.

Abington Hills Cemetery is a place of beauty and serenity where you can bring your loved ones with a feeling of security and confidence. The monument areas are most attractive with woodside settings or with plots overlooking the beautiful Thompson Lake. Areas with a character of their own are also available.

It is in the "Garden of the Open Bible" where sunrise services are conducted on Easter Sunday. Special services are also presented on Memorial Day to honor our loved ones who served their country. The Association also provides bus service on Memorial Day, Easter Sunday, or when the foliage is so beautiful in the Fall, for those who have no way to get to the cemetery.

That was in the early 1900's. At that time Abington Hills Cemetery was a place of beauty and serenity. In the early 1980's Abington Hills Cemetery Association, Inc. sold the burial grounds. The successive ownerships did not uphold the high aspirations of the previous Association. The once pristine grounds, which held the headstones bearing the names of our loved ones, became choked with undergrowth, lost in the brush.

In June of 2022, Bill Davis, a retired banker, went to the cemetery and had trouble finding his parents' gravestone as the grass was taller than the stone. Bill recognized the need for volunteers to clean up the cemetery and enlisted the help of neighbors. Richard and Jennie Yarmey made a sign asking for volunteers, listing Bill's phone number. Friends and family members came to the cemetery armed with mowers and weedwhackers to clear the graves of family members.

During the summer of 2024 Crystal Armideo stopped by the cemetery to visit her grandparents' grave. Frustrated with the unkempt condition she reached out to Bill Davis. Bill expressed he wanted to start a 501c3. Crystal agreed it would be beneficial. Mr. Davis's idea served as the catalyst for our nonprofit's innovation.

In August of 2024 Bill and Crystal met with Carol Wilkerson and Louise McDonnell of Shady Lane Cemetery, who had previously formed a successful 501c3, to discuss the details of forming a nonprofit. Following Carol's guidelines and submitting the necessary paperwork, FOAHC became official in January 2025.

The purpose of forming our nonprofit is to maintain the grounds that had been long neglected. Though we are making great progress we have so much more to do. This summer will bring the continued improvement to the grounds and reconditioning of our storage garage.

Many veterans have been laid to rest throughout the cemetery. We have a few famous residents: Willard "Bud" Jenkins who was a member of the 82nd Airborne. Several movies were made about these brave men; Charles "Chick" Shorten a great local baseball player inducted into the Hall of Fame, and others we have yet to discover. You can read their stories on our Facebook page, Friends of Abington Hills Cemetery.

The ad on the right contains two signs of the times.

- 1- Abington Hills is located on the "new" Morgan Highway
- 2- Far removed from the "mining zone"

The Abington Hills Cemetery, founded in 1929, has some 125 acres along the Morgan Highway - 30 acres fully developed with 10 acres under development. It is less than 2 miles from the city limits on a hillside overlooking the beautiful Abington Hills. An increasing income from an ever growing substantial Trust Fund guarantees PERPETUAL CARE to maintain the Cemetery.

AWAY from the noise of the city, amid rolling hills and verdure green, Abington Hills Cemetery combines all those elements of beauty, safety and sanctity which make the modern burial park, a resting place of peace and quiet for your loved ones.

Abington Hills Cemetery is situated on the new Morgan Highway, far removed from the mining zone. It consists of one hundred and seven acres of land, divided in plots ranging from one to twenty graves, mausoleum sites and spacious reservations for a beautiful chapel that is planned for the future. Simplicity and dignity are distinguishing features of this modern burial park.

You seek for yourself and your family the best in life, why not choose a final resting place with the same thoughtful care. Beautiful Abington Hills Cemetery has the appearance of a picturesque park or some well nourished estate, its serenity is impressive, its charm and restful peace hold out a comforting hand that will be most felt when urgent need presents itself and finds you prepared.

From August 1 through August 3, Downtown Scranton will be alive with the sounds of more than 80 artists offering their finest jazz at upwards of 20 venues. The New Orleans-style festival delivers performances from national, regional and local musicians and vocalists. On Friday and Saturday, a trolley will be available to take people to the various venues across downtown.

Scranton Jazz coincides with First Friday Scranton and this year introduces the Interactive Arts Marketplace at Courthouse Square. The venue features artisan vendors, children's activities, live music, as well as special performances.

The music began in 2005 at Hanlon's Grove Amphitheatre at Nay Aug Park. Two years later, after a major snowstorm damaged the amphitheater, the fledgling Scranton Jazz Festival found new digs in the more sedate Radisson Lackawanna Station Hotel in downtown Scranton.

The festival has grown to become a mainstay on the Northeast Pennsylvania arts and culture scene providing a good mix of jazz, blues and world beat music performed by some of the best international, national and regional artists and musicians.

How Long Have the Trains Been Gone?

Delaware Lackawanna & Western 0-6-0 No. 40, along with crew members and others, pose for a photo along Green Ridge Street in Scranton in this early 1900's photo. The location is a short distance from the Lackawanna River and North Main Avenue, located to the left and from the D&H's Green Ridge Yard, located to the right. The steeple of St. Joseph's Catholic Church on N. Main Ave. and Theodore St is faintly visible near the far left side, behind one of the telegraph poles. Behind these buildings was trackage that connected the NYO&W Scranton Branch with Green Ridge Yard and the nearby Von Storch breaker. The locomotive was a Camelback type, because its cab was located in the center of the locomotive rather than at the rear end. This special design permitted the construction of a wider firebox needed to burn anthracite coal, but also meant that the engineer and the fireman were separated from each other. Today this area has one or two small manufacturing companies, but most of the scene is the location of a shopping center. None of the tracks occupied by the train or crossing the street still exist.

The location of the train and warehouses in the above photograph are where the Green Ridge Shopping Center now stands. Train is pointed in the direction of the former Delaware & Hudson Railway Green Ridge Street Underpass

This is the eighth in a series of edited reprints from "The Laurel Northeastern Pennsylvania's Magazine." It is planned to republish subsequent articles in their entirety as a special feature of History Bytes. All reprints will center on economic development, local history, culture, social programs and initiatives, and recreation in the Greater Scranton region.

As best as can be determined, "The Laurel" magazine had a short life. Four (4) issues, thought to be the total production, are in a private collection (Volume 1, Numbers 1-3, and Volume 2, Number 1). If anyone can supply additional issues, please contact the Lackawanna Historical Society at lackawannahistory@gmail.com

Lake Wallenpaupack was created in 1924-26 by the Pennsylvania Power & Light Company when it built a 70-foot-tall dam on Wallenpaupack Creek. The northeastern Pennsylvania lake, has a maximum depth of 60 feet, is near the Borough of Hawley and forms part of the boundary between Pike and Wayne counties. From 1926 until 1973 it was the largest lake—5,700 acres with a 52-mile shoreline-- contained entirely in Pennsylvania. In 1973 it was surpassed in size by Raystown Lake—8,300 acres, with a shoreline of 118 miles--entirely in Huntington County, Pennsylvania.

"Wallenpaupack" is an indigenous Lenape word which means "the stream of swift and slow water." Lake Wallenpaupack was designed for hydroelectric power and flood control. However, it is best known as an outstanding all-seasons destination in the Pocono Mountain area. Sailing and racing "Lightnings" have a long history and popularity as a recreational and competitive sport at Lake Wallenpaupack, evidenced by this reprint article from 1953.

Richard Fitzsimmons, Ph.D.

JOE NEINER OF FLEET 980, RARITAN BAY, is the first over the line in the initial race for the Metropolitan District Championship at Lake Wallenpaupack.

Racing Lightnings at Wallenpaupack

The small lightning class sailboats, which a wind can pick up and clip along through the water when they have plenty of space ahead of them, had a field day on massive Lake Wallenpaupack this Summer in the largest sailboat race ever held in Northeastern Pennsylvania. Thousands attended the three day regatta.

Lake Wallenpaupack's Fleet 16, under Commodore H. T. Axford, of Scranton, was host to Lightning Class Skippers from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania for Metropolitan District Championship. The winners competed in the International regatta at Buffalo last weekend

Easily handled, the small lightning class sailboat is usually manned by a crew comprised of a skipper and two sail handlers. Standards set for building of all lightnings are rigid so that the competition is between the contestants and does not involve the skill of designers and boat builders. Paupack sailing fleet 16 is an early fleet chartered in 1940 by W. T. Lindsay, P. A. Hutchinson, R. B. Edgar and H. T. Axford.

PHIL SCHUMACHER congratulates the skippers who won the first three places, right, Ed Water, second place, June Methot, first place, and Joseph Hoffee, third place.

Pictorial Highlights Lightning Craft Regatta

THIS was the first district Championship to be held on a man made lake. Lake Wallenpaupack, thirteen miles long and with 52 miles of shoreline, was created by Pennsylvania Power and Light Company in 1925. The largest lake wholly within the commonwealth, Wallenpaupack is used to store water for the 40,000 kilowatt peak load hydro electric plant at the site. Open to the public, it is one of the best fishing, hunting and camping locations in Pennsylvania.

SCRANTON CONTESTANTS, members of the Paupack Fleet, Commodore Axford, his daughter Elsie, and Tina Schultz, off to the races.

COMMODORE HENRY ABREU, right, Chelsea Fleet, congratulates Phil Schumacher and his wife, Barbara, on their election as commodore and secretary of Metropolitan District for 1954 season.

MESSRS. BROE and WATSON, members of the race committee, from Nyack Fleet and Judge Schumacher and Dick Davis in preparation of the races.

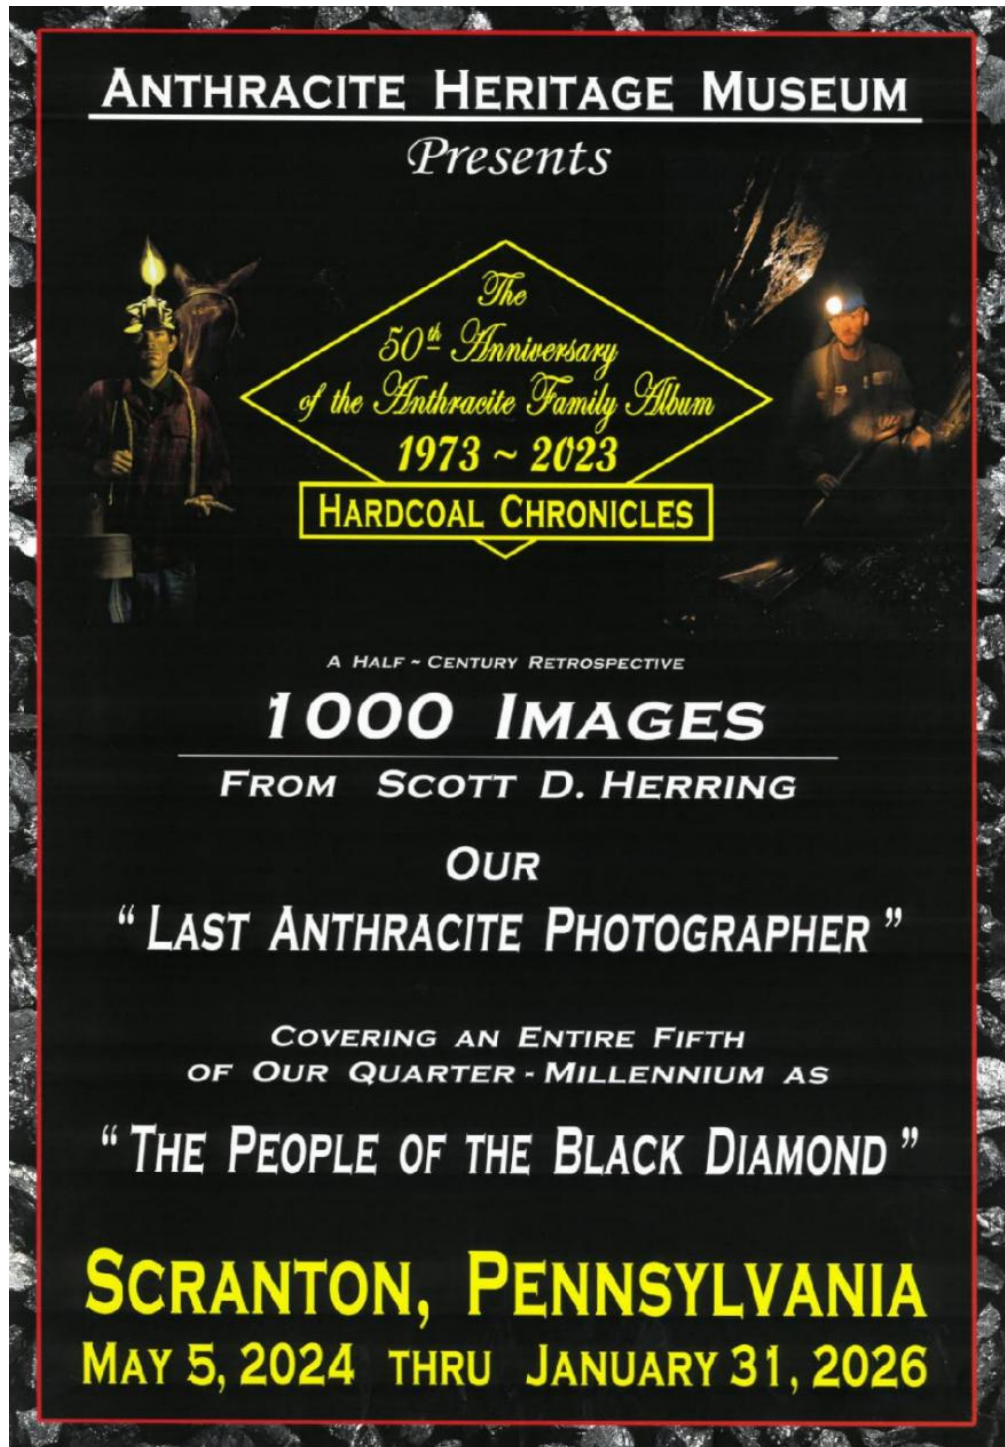

FORMER CHAMP BILLY SOOSE, discusses arrangements with Clarene S. Hoch, an official of the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co., who is Captain of Lightning 884 Paupack Fleet.

CALM SETS IN AS RACERS PASS AROUND BUOY, but in following races a strong wind picked up the sails and hurried the boats along in record speed.

Founded in 1886 as the Lackawanna Institute of History and Science, the Lackawanna Historical Society provides the community with a record of local history through its museum and library collections, exhibits and programs. In 1942, from the bequest of George H. Catlin, the Society established its permanent home at Catlin's 1912 residence, located at 232 Monroe Avenue in Scranton, Pennsylvania. In 1965, it was designated as the official county historical society by Lackawanna County and continues to serve the county as a center for local historical resources. The Lackawanna Historical Society is a 501 ©3 nonprofit organization, is supported in part by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, Catlin Memorial Trust, Lackawanna County and memberships.
